

Crystal Pendants & Pendulums

Crystals have been around for millions of years, forming underneath the earth in extremely high temperatures and pressure. The various colours and structures of the crystals are created when different elements are present during formation. Because of this, each crystal carries a unique healing energy frequency, depending on its chemical and mineral composition.

Our crystal pendants are double terminated (pointed at both ends) which allows energy from above and below to flow in both directions. They strengthen the energy flow between chakra points helping to balance and integrate energy within each chakra promoting an expanded and protective auric field.

Our crystal pendulums are single-terminated (pointed at one end) or double-terminated.

Pendulums are tools that allow direct intuitive communication with ones Higher Self and the Universal Mind, and are used as a form of divination to receive guidance or answers to questions that can't be found by rational deduction or via the five senses. Dowsing is a golden thread that connects and runs through all cultures and belief systems and has been practised throughout the millennia. It is believed that the practice of dowsing can lead to the development of ones intuitive nature.

Not only are our crystal pendants functional on an energy-level, they are also beautiful individually-crafted pieces of jewellery.

Each of our pendants and pendulums is created from high-quality crystal or stone, carefully hand-wrapped in imported silver plated wire, individually packed with comprehensive information on the healing properties relative to each crystal or stone.
