

Humans vs. Zombies
Battle Across Time
Part 7

INT. TARDIS- THE FUTURE

Schyler watches the monitor intently; like she's expecting it to start back up again. Thankfully nothing happens.

SCHYLER
Yeah. It's over.

LAURA
Where and when are we?

SCHYLER
Washington D.C. About 25 years in the future. Controls still won't respond, but you might want to take a look at this.

The group piles around the monitor; unsure of how to register what they are seeing.

LAURA
Everything looks so...normal.

The monitor indeed shows ordinary people walking the streets. Not a zombie in sight.

DANNY
Does this mean we're safe?

SCHYLER
Guess we'll have to go out and see.

LAURA Wait.

Laura is finally getting up to her feet. Still a tad winded from earlier.

LAURA (CONT'D)
Some of us need to stay behind and guard the Tardis.

SCHYLER
Against what? We don't know if there's any danger yet.

LAURA Exactly.

Laura turns to some of the survivors.

(CONTINUED)

LAURA (CONT'D)
Allyson, Courtney, Kenzie, Daria.
Stay here along with...those guys
over there. Lock the doors behind us when we leave.

KRISTEN
Shouldn't we bring any weapons with us?

LAURA
I guess so...put down the shotgun,
Kristen.

Kristen doesn't put it down.

LAURA (CONT'D)
(sighs)
That's an order.

Kristen begrudgingly puts her larger weapon down and grabs a PPK off the table. She slips it into her back pocket.

LAURA (CONT'D)
If we aren't back in three hours I want you guys to fire this thing back up and get the Hell out of here.

COURTNEY
How? This thing seems to work only when it feels like it.

LAURA
Just insult it. That worked last time somehow.

Schyler steps forward to the exit and opens the doors. The light from the sun is so bright it's almost blinding at first. It slowly dies out and the group goes forward.

EXT. WASHINGTON D.C.- CONTINUOUS

The team finds themselves in an alleyway. No one seems to be around to notice them exit.

The Tardis shuts behind, Laura, Danny, Will, Erin, Trevor, Kristen, and Schyler.

They leave the alley and enter the nation's capital.

As they saw on the Tardis' monitors there was nothing out there. No sign of any zombies. Just people.

(CONTINUED)

DANNY

Ok, we're safe. Let's go now.

Danny tries to go back to the Tardis, but Schyler grabs his arm.

SCHYLER

Hold it. Your eyes can deceive you.
Best not to trust them.

KRISTEN

And even if things are safe in this age, we need to know how the world
got saved.

LAURA

Exactly. Let's move out.

INT. DAVIS LIBRARY- THE PAST

The ones left behind are lined up against the wall. Weapons lying a good distance from them in a pile.

Chelse walks up the line giving them all a hard stare.

Bow and arrows in hand.

CHELSE

We have at least 2 casualties, half our group lost plus the Tardis, and the only leader of the group currently lying on the floor with a bullet in him. Need I say more?

ELLIOT

Chelse. Why would any of us shoot
Chipper or Chris?

CHELSE

I don't know, yet unless the zombies suddenly learned how to use guns...

CAM

It could have been Brood Mother for all we know.

CHELSE

That sounded stupid even coming out of your mouth.

(CONTINUED)

CAM

And I thought you saved those insults for Colton. I feel special right now.

TO BE CONTINUED...