Dear Mr. Löfven,

RE: Project: "Sweden Leading the World"

I am an independent researcher, PhD, a citizen of Israel, actually a Russian hostage in Israel, 81. In the course of my almost 40-year-long research, that I started in Russia late in the 60s and since 1992 have proceeded with in Israel, Europe and Canada, I achieved the following:

- (1) reformed modern physics, which is not recognized officially yet;
- (2) discovered the true interpretation of the General System Theory, actually the Philosophy of Science;
- (3) worked out the general methodology for reforming modern science including humanities;
- (4) created the frameworks of the true sciences of Politics and Economics, the sciences nonexistent or underdeveloped before while socially most important.

As an analysis shows, the crisis of modern science has been underlying the present general ideological crisis of civilization now threatening the very existence of humankind. So my current mission is to organize the reform of modern science on a large scale, including perhaps religion. Such a mission needs a strong international support and a coordinating center. I would like just to put such a reform on track and prepare younger researchers to substitute me when necessary.

Seeking international support for my research in physics, 10.02.17, I submitted my abstract, "Systemic Logic in Theoretical Astrophysics", ID371, to the Nordita Cosmology Conference (Stockholm), scheduled for July 2017. The abstract however was rejected without any convincing argument. With a decade-long history of such rejections at European and Israeli conferences, besieged in Israel by a gang of Russian agents blocking all my important correspondence, I have decided to visit Stockholm and get to know the true reason for denying me participation to the Conference.

June 19, I visited the Nordita to discuss my problem, but was denied any opportunity to meet any person responsible for the program of the conference. June 21, I sent an email to Prof. Anders Karlhede, Chancellor for Science, Stockholm University seeking his assistance with my problem and proposing the above project, but there has been no response again.

I had been ready for such a failure and had to accept it. However, such a conduct of the European scientific community, refusing to consider new scientific ideas, whatever radical, characterizes quite completely the state of modern European society as a whole. According to Hegel's pronouncement: "Everything inconsistent with its underlying idea is doomed". The European society was created on the Earth to be the spiritual center of civilization, but modern Europe seems to have ceased to be such a center, which therefore may suggest the coming end of Europe. The current political trends may confirm that gloomy conclusion.

To change that fatal course, for Europe to revive, it would be necessary to reform radically its society. Fortunately, my unique research, based on the true scientific method, the merger of science and philosophy, provides the proper ideology and methodology for such a reform. However, the scientific establishment seems to take my reformatory proposals as a most dangerous challenge to their profession. So I have decided to apply next time to the government and the parliament of this country.

In this connection would you please recommend the government of Sweden to do the following:

- (1) to organize a professional estimation of my research in physics;
- (2) to establish in Sweden an International Coordinating Center aimed at leading and coordinating the reform of modern science in general, including humanities;
- (3) to appoint me Director General of the Center, providing me with the proper social status and living conditions in this country.

In addition, please see online some of my relevant papers and documents. I would be able to stay in Stockholm till the end of June.

Yours sincerely,

Igor Makarov, PhD
