

Diversionary News

Any targeted news story wherein the news industry attempts to use its shock value to distract from more unsettling issues that have caught the public's attention. Such issues can be centered around political, social, or economic events that have raised public concern.

Author: John C. Sudds

3/2/2019