

Continuation 'What is Green Vitality Boost?' part 2

Why Green Vitality Boost for (blood) parasites?

The different types of parasites::

From the many Vital Blood Scans, we have experienced that in this day and age (post-2020), many people carry (blood) parasites. There are many thousands of species of parasites that can enter humans in different ways and multiply when the human environment has become weakened and acidified.

When we hear the word parasites, we think of intestinal parasites. That's right because most parasites occur in the intestines, their size can range from visible to the naked eye to even barely visible under the microscope. There are also parasites that prefer a special place in the body; the liver and pancreatic flukes are examples. There are parasites that specifically seek out the lung area or can be found in muscles. We are also seeing more and more parasites in blood drops from the Vital Blood Scan.

Parasites secrete toxins, disrupting vital organs or our nervous system and our brains:

Most parasites are fairly harmless, living off the nutrients in the intestines. Still others can lodge in bile and pancreatic ducts, which can clog them up, obstructing the necessary fluid release and undermining our vitality.

The harmful parasites eat our cells, causing damage. The excretory substances of parasites can be very toxic such as ammonia. This substance can even penetrate the blood-brain barrier and damage brain cells.

Why eliminating (blood) parasites is harder than changing our 'internal environment':

It is often impossible for the immune system to eliminate parasites, as they have a strong intelligence within them to survive.

It is important that we make our own inner environment 'unfriendly' to parasites, preventing them from finding housing in our bodies and working their way out with our faeces.

The Green Vitality Boost makes our inner environment alkaline with prolonged use. This gives a higher pH to the body that parasites and also fungi (such as the Candida fungus) do not like (see also the Para à side Xpeller). The protective gut flora, the intestinal bacteria cultures, can reproduce well in an alkaline environment, thus better protecting the gut from parasitic and fungal load. (Info Liquid Pro-Biotica)

With blood parasites, the situation is different. The known blood parasites are known to be very dangerous parasites, which can make most people seriously ill and even kill them. There are also blood parasites that we are initially unaware of and seem harmless.

The key why Green Vitality Boost supported parasite removal:

The diet of most blood parasites is 'something' from the blood plasma and processed nutrients meant for the cells. With the presence of blood parasites, the host/human gradually becomes weakened, without knowing exactly what the reason is.

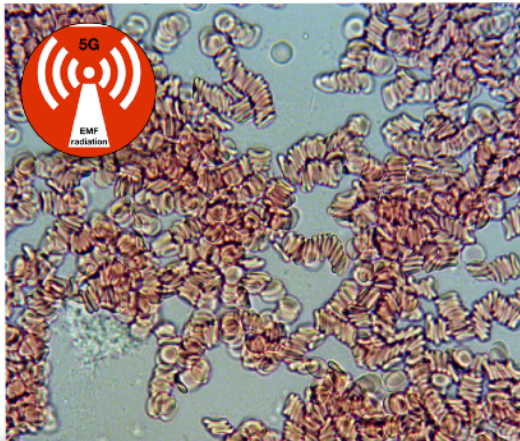

The vast majority of blood parasites feed on our red blood cells, which can lead to anaemia. This is often a slow and unknown process resulting in fatigue symptoms to total exhaustion.

To tackle these parasites, we need vital blood. The Green Vitality Boost plays an important role in this because the use of alkaline leafy vegetables keeps body fluids in the right high pH balance where parasites don't want to be. Moreover, the chlorophyll in Green Vitality Boost strengthens and multiplies the red blood cells giving the body the power to regain vitality and thus find a new balance where parasites do not feel at home and slowly but surely leave the host.

In case of a severe parasitic load, a more comprehensive Vitality Plan than described above is needed. Which includes specific supplements as well as phasing out parasites and parasite eggs by frequencies. For information on this, ask your contact person.

Example live blood under the microscope

Clotted cells with positive charge

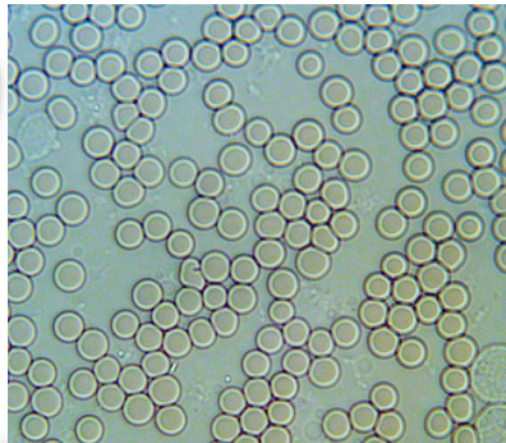

In this picture, we see blood clotting, which means blood cells are attracted to each other by a positive charge of the cell membrane. This prevents the blood from flowing through the capillaries and creates an oxygen and nutrient deficiency.

Single cells with a negative charge

The membrane of red blood cells should be negatively charged so that they repel each other. This allows them to flow freely through the blood vessels, bringing oxygen and nutrients to the cells and discharging CO2 and waste products.

Figure 1

Above in Figure 1, we see the result of blood clotting caused by today's continuous exposure to radiation from our computers, mobile phones and other electronic devices controlled 'wirelessly'. By wearing an Electro Magnetic Vitalizer (EMV), you take the first step in getting our blood, our body's transport system to the organs, cells and our brain, moving. Green Vitality Boost provides powerful red blood cells.

Function of red blood cells in case of parasites

Red blood cells are our first defence mechanism, then the various white blood cells are used to eliminate the remnants.

2004

This is an image of a picture I (Ingrid) took in Switzerland where the red blood cells (RBC) immobilised the parasite. Then a single white blood cell (WBC) went to the parasite and sprayed something on the membrane. This was done in several places, carefully avoiding the head and tail. The RBCs moved to give the WBC access to the parasite. Each RBC went to the WBC for instructions before starting work.

2023

This is an image from a Vital Blood Scan Xtra report of a 50-year-old man without Covet injections and or PCR test(s). We see the exactly same image only taken with a different kind of microscope and camera. The RBC defence mechanism is at the expense of the red blood cell count.

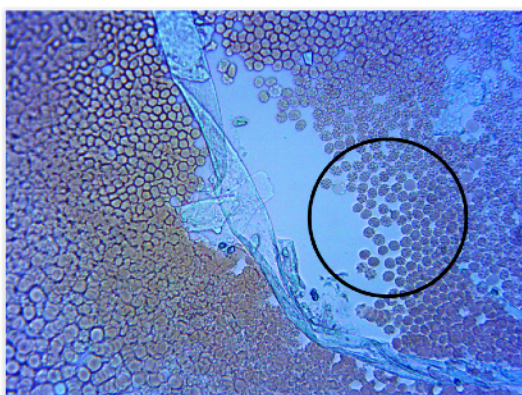

Figure 2 (page 2) shows that the red blood cells neutralise the parasite's 'charge', avoiding the 'toxic' head and tail. The red blood cells 'sacrifice' themselves, so to speak, and most die. After which the white blood cell further 'defuses' the parasite.

The fact that many people today have poor blood quality is partly because our environment has become highly polluted and our food impoverished (due to lack of vitamins and minerals) over the last 100 years. On top of this, the intensity of radiation from 'wireless' technology has increased exponentially (a process going on since 1880). The last intensity jump of radiation was in 2020 when the 5G network was activated worldwide.

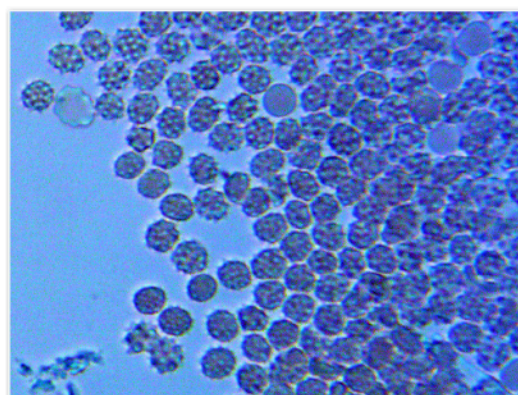

This situation has caused our current living environment to become an 'ideal environment/breeding ground' for parasites (and fungi) and is certainly partly to blame for the fact that we are increasingly seeing parasitic loads in young and old since 2020.

Function of red blood cells

Red blood cells are our first defence mechanism, then the various white blood cells are used to eliminate the remnants.

Here we see the dying red blood cells. We call this the 'crowning effect' or 'crowning effect'. The red blood cells absorb the charge of the parasite or foreign body substance so that it cannot further damage vital bodily functions.

When red blood cells are extremely stressed, they exhibit a "crowning effect", indicating membrane damage and reduced functionality. Discharge of bodily foreign substances can lead to red blood cell death. Too few red blood cells causes fatigue.

- fight off unwanted guests such as parasites (see Figure 2) and
- be and stay fit and vital. Green Vitality Boost is a necessary support.
