Global Limitation of Liability & Consumer Disclaimer

1. Customer Perception and Interpretation

All services, courses, wares, digital products, and physical items offered on this website are provided for personal development, educational, and entertainment purposes only. The interpretation, perception, and application of any information, spirit summoning, occult practice, or counsel provided are entirely subjective. By purchasing, the customer acknowledges that the outcomes of these practices depend heavily on individual belief frameworks and personal variables. Consequently, the Company guarantees the performance of the service as described, but cannot guarantee specific subjective outcomes or personal satisfaction. The Company is in no way legally or financially accountable for any perceived disappointment, dissatisfaction, or negative interpretation on the part of the customer.

2. Absolute Assumption of Risk and Responsibility

By entering into a transaction on this website, the customer accepts full, unilateral legal responsibility for how they utilize, perceive, or react to the purchased services or products. The Company holds no liability for any real or perceived consequences—whether emotional, psychological, physical, or material—arising from the customer's engagement with the occult material, counseling, or wares. The relationship between the Company and the customer is strictly limited to the execution and delivery of the transaction itself.

3. Delivery and Fulfillment Standards

The Company ensures that all digital courses, physical objects, and contracted services are executed and delivered in accordance with the specifications agreed upon at the time of purchase. Once a digital asset is transmitted or a specific service protocol is initiated, fulfillment is legally complete. The customer explicitly agrees that claims of "non-receipt" or "unsatisfactory delivery" based on subjective expectations or a change of mind do not constitute valid grounds for chargebacks, refunds, or legal claims. All risk regarding the perceived value or utility of the service shifts permanently to the customer upon checkout.
