HIROSHIMA STORY IS FULLY RECOUNTED IN MAGAZINE ARTICLE

New York, Aug. 29.—(UP)—The New Yorker magazine appeared on the news stands today with its entire issue of Aug. 31 devoted to the story of how an atomic bomb destroyed a city. The article occupies 73 columns of the magazine's 88 pages. It is signed by John Hersey, reporter and foreign correspondent who wrote the best-selling book "A Boy from Hiroshima." All departments of the magazine including its famous cartoons, fiction and reviews were eliminated to make room for the Hersey account of what happened at Hiroshima, Japan, when an atomic bomb was exploded over the city at 8:15 a. m., Aug. 6, 1945. In the main the story is told in terms of the experiences of six Hiroshima residents who survived the blast. In recent years the New Yorker has devoted more and more of its content in the front part of the magazine to world affairs and arguments for a world government. In their introduction to the Hiroshima story today the editors express the conviction "that few of us have yet comprehended the all but incredible destructive power of this weapon, and that everyone might well take time to consider the terrible implications of its use."

Early Stocks

New York, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Stocks turned higher at the opening of today's session, following a three-day break that had wiped out about $5,000,000,000 in market values of listed shares. Bonds were irregular. Cotton was up 8 to 15 points. Gains ranged to a point or more in such leaders as Bethlehem Steel, Boeing Airplane, Goodyear Tire, Chrysler and Standard Oil of California. Warner Brothers, on 1800 shares, opened at 23 3/4, a new high and a gain of 3/4 point. 20th Century-Fox had a fractional rise. Paramount opened on 200 shares at 35, up 1/4. Eastern Air Lines, on 2100 shares, rose half a point. Montgomery Ward opened on 1400 shares on a gain of 3/4 point to 77. American Rolling Mills, up 1, and Hiram Walker, up 1 1/2, featured their respective groups. A long list of leaders had major fractional gains, including International Nickel, ex-dividend, U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, Baltimore & Ohio, Studebaker, Armour & Co., Johns-Manville, ex-dividend, and Standard Gas 3/4 preferred. General Electric moved up 1 1/4 points on its opening transaction.

FOOD RATIONING END IN RUSSIA DELAYED BY SEVERE DROUGHT

Moscow, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Abolition of food rationing, promised to the Russians this year by Premier Josef Stalin, has been postponed until 1947 because of drought inroads on food stocks, it was announced today. The presidium of the supreme Soviet — parliament's executive committee—decreed the delay in lifting of rationing. Newspapers announced the following announcement: "In connection with the drought in a number of districts of the U.S.S.R. and decrease of the state's food stocks, the presidium of the supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. decreed acceptance of the council of minister's application to postpone the abolition of the food card system from 1946 to 1947." In his pre-election speech last February, Stalin, anticipating good harvests, informed the people that rationing of bread and bread products would be abolished before the end of the year. Since then the drought in south and west Ukraine ruined the winter crops and caused a sharp decline in grain stocks. In the course of the drought a decree ordered re-planting of the winter crop areas where the crops were ruined and replanting with spring crops. Newspapers said part of the winter crops were saved, but on the whole the results were unfavorable. UNRRA experts who were in the Ukraine reported that because of the widespread destruction of agricultural machinery by the Germans, the peasants had gone back to plowing, planting and harvesting by hand. The experts also said the peasants were using cows as draft animals to replace horses lost during the war, with the result that milk production fell off badly.

POLISH DELEGATE

(Continued From Page One) to be taken by the Big Four towards at least 200 amendments submitted by the 17 medium and smaller powers." Byrnes, Bevin and Bidault have not had private talks with Molotov since the conference started. The only private meetings have been between Byrnes and Bevin. These have increased Soviet suspicions that the western powers are trying to gang up against the Soviet bloc. Latest in the recurring conflicts has been this week's name-calling between Russia and Australia. Soviet anger was aimed chiefly at Australian amendments which would have revised the entire big four reparations agreement if they had not been voted down. The United States, France and Britain voted with Russia in supporting the Big Four agreement. Both Molotov and Andrei Vishinskiy, his chief assistant, considered that Australia was acting as a British "stooge." The Big Four were expected to discuss the possibility of adopting a common front toward the amendments and appointing one of their number to act as "Big Four spokesman" defending the treaty drafts. Chances for such an agreement were not bright. Subordinate commissions examining the drafts were to meet as usual today, although all delegates were concerned primarily with the big power session.

NATIVES CARVE HALL

A hand carved meeting house, first of its kind achieved by the Ngapahi people, has been completed by the Maoris of Otiria, New Zealand. It was built under the leadership of the local chief, Ariki Ngawahi, by a member of the tribe, Wi Parahi, and is the only carved meeting house in the Bay of Islands, except for a memorial building at Waitangi. —Observer Ads Pay Dividends.

CHILDREN'S FAIRY TALES CRITICIZED BY USSR

Moscow, Aug. 29.—(UP)—The official Soviet newspaper Pravda continued its campaign for ideological rectitude today when it criticized two children's magazines for "feeding children nonsensical fairy tales which take the youthful reader out of the realm of reality." The magazines also were criticized for distorting the truth about the Soviet Union. Pravda attacked the magazine "Murzilka" for publishing a fairy tale by Kornei Chukovsky which the paper called "delirium in the form of a fairy tale." The magazine "Pioneer" was hit for not publishing articles "acquainting young readers with the problems of life and struggle of our Socialist fatherland, with the problems of politics, economy, science and art."

BRITISH TO PROTEST ARMS VIOLATIONS OF POTSDAM AGREEMENT

London, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Informed sources predicted today that Britain would make a vigorous and blunt approach to Russia in the near future in connection with the alleged violation of the Potsdam agreement. These sources said the issue was expected to come up in the Allied control council in Berlin in the next few days. Both Britain and the United States have indicated increasing concern over reports that German factories in the Soviet zone are turning out rockets and other weapons. Strong American support for any further British move is expected. The subject of the reported armament manufacture was last raised at the July foreign ministers council by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov turned down Bevin's suggestion for a four-power investigation of demilitarization in all zones. The Anglo-American concern undoubtedly has been heightened by the pyrotechnic display of rockets over Sweden. British military experts believe that the Soviets have succeeded in developing the German long-range rocket to the point where it is a far more effective weapon than the missile the Germans used against London. The British foreign office said "There is no question" but that the directing of rockets over Sweden was a violation of international law. However, that "would be a matter for diplomatic exchanges between Sweden and the responsible government — in this case presumably the Soviet union," the source said.

SHORTAGE OF SKILLED CRAFTSMEN CAUSES FEAR TO INDUSTRY

Washington, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Fear of a shortage of skilled craftsmen for industry was expressed today by the labor department as it sought to prevent a wholesale exodus of veterans from its apprentice-training program. The department's labor-management advisory committee on apprenticeship said it had received reports of widespread dissatisfaction among veterans. Many have threatened to withdraw because of new congressional wage ceilings. A newly-passed bill prohibits apprentices and other on-the-job trainees from receiving monthly subsistence allowances if they already are being paid $175 a month (single men) or $200 a month (married men) by their employers. The Veterans Administration said it cannot exempt either apprentices or on-the-job trainees from this ceiling. The DOD must ask the next congress to wipe it out. The advisory committee approved a veterans' committee to remain in their apprentice training jobs. It urged employers and labor unions to exert "every reasonable influence" on them to do so. It said recent charges of wholesale abuses in on-the-job apprenticeship programs. And it urged veterans to stick to their training "rather than make a short-sighted view and quit in immediate financial gain for jobs which provide no social foundation . . . for the future."
