

How To Get Daily News Online

It was not too long ago that you had to physically visit a newspaper stand or call a hotline to get your daily news online. These days, you have the ability to receive your news online from anywhere in the world with only a few clicks of your mouse. Here is a rundown of how this new technology is changing the way we get breaking news and the way we enjoy it.

The first step involves using an email address to sign up for the newsletter that is provided through Digg, Reddit, Facebook, etc. This newsletter will generally send you updates from time to time and it will give you news of interest to you. If you do not want to go through a subscription fee, then you can opt to only receive certain types of news that are published through newspapers. For example, if you are looking for a local breaking news, then you could simply type in "bathrooms" or "walls," depending on what city you live in. The list goes on, as you can see.

Another step involves having your email account that is provided through Yahoo, Google News, AOL News, MySpace or Craigslist. Through this email account, you can go directly to a website called Digg, Reddit, Facebook, etc. and find a site that delivers a daily update of the news. You can click on the link and choose the city or county you live in, depending on which city/county you were interested in. You will be asked to log in to the website and then you will be prompted to submit your email address for delivery.

Once you have entered your information, you will be sent a text message or an email with a link to confirm that you agree to the terms of the subscription. After that, you will be sent a confirmation code and you will have to enter the code into your online account to complete the subscription. The next step entails placing your delivery address and phone number where ever you posted the online subscription. The delivery address should be your work phone number and your home phone number. Your phone number can be your cell phone or an unlisted land line number. Place your information and then submit.

When everything is set up properly, you will receive a text message or an email confirming that your subscription has been received. Then, you will be sent a link to verify your subscription and if everything is correct, the next step is to register your email address, your phone number or your home telephone number. The third step is to verify the billing information and your circulation office hours.

If everything looks right, your subscription will be sent out to your email address and your phone number at the circulation department. It is important to follow up immediately with a phone call or even an email message to ensure that the delivery address and the billing information are correct. It is even important to make sure that your subscription was received by the correct person, as you do not want your news delivered to the wrong person. This is an easy process if you follow the directions and have patience.
