

Frenchie Furniture Paint Is Great For Upcycling

If you care about the environment and like to look after the pounds in your pocket, you'll know upcycling old furniture is a handy trick to achieving home improvements on a budget. Frenchie furniture paint is an ideal tool to makeover jaded wooden furniture in your home.

Ordinary paints are latex-based, meaning the finish on wooden furniture can be patchy at best. You may end up with visible brushstrokes that spoil the overall effect. Latex-based paint can also leave drawers or doors sticky, so they can't be opened as easily. Products like Frenchie furniture paint, though, will give a much smoother, more professional-looking finish.

There's no need to sand or prime wood before using it, and you only need to apply one or two coats - with latex paints, surfaces must be prepared and primed before use. Frenchie furniture paint is also highly durable, especially when waxed or varnished with a water-based polyurethane coating, so will withstand the inevitable knocks and blows.

Finally, Frenchie furniture paint is versatile - there's a wide range of colours, and it's easy to modify the finish to achieve a distressed look with light sanding or buffing with wax.
