

Why do you need a clearing tray?

Impregnation is a result of the energy exchange with the environment. As we are open energy systems, we are constantly in communication with our environment. After some time, this energy exchange can lead to a build up of static and other fields around any jewelry we are wearing. In fact, every physical material impregnates with energy and so do your clothes and body! Don't worry; you clear this energy off of you when you shower every day. Another common example of impregnation is how you may find yourself removing your glasses every now and then, or why you could begin feeling the earrings you were wearing all day suddenly become heavy and uncomfortable.

All shapes that are linear and open ended are highly resistant to impregnation. However when placed on a base, such as with the EMV ornament, the body of the EMV impregnates and needs to be cleared. When your EMV ornament impregnates, the build up of energy on the pendant, will prevent the symbols used from interacting with your body functions and will therefore not balance optimally the incoming harmful energies or continue harmonizing body organ functions. The EMV ornament full function is reduced* until it is cleared. To keep the EMV functioning effectively, clear the EMV ornament by placing it on the clearing tray preferably daily or every 3 days for 1 minute on each side.

Other items such as glasses, stones, or any jewelry can be placed on the clearing tray. If you are very sensitive, or live in a particularly stressful environment, then we suggest clearing your ornament daily. If you don't have your clearing tray on hand, blowing on the pendant or tapping it will generally clear enough. The EMV ornament is a personal Self-Care Solution and should not be shared.

* Note: One has to realize that the Magnetic field function of the EMV ornament is NOT subject to impregnation. Same counts for Self-Care solutions with frequency programmed crystals. Clearing is needed in relation to the used material of the body & symbols, as each symbol carries its own supporting energy influences. By clearing the EMV ornament daily the symbols have their full effects on your body and mind.
