

About the protesters

I am writing because I am sick and tired of hearing about the cause of the protesters at the Concord Naval Weapons Station. I am also tired of hearing about Brian Willson.

People have questioned why District Attorney Gary Yancey didn't file charges against the train engineers or anyone at the weapons station. These people seem to be overlooking the fact that trains cannot stop at a second's notice.

Yes, Willson may have told people at the station that he would be on the tracks but should they be so strange as to assume that no sane person would just sit there? Willson is the one who should be questioned as to why he did not move. If they want to talk legal charges against anyone, how about a class action suit against the protesters for the cost of repairing the railroad tracks they destroyed.
