

Lost Souls – Treatment 18 08 2013

Candiss is 19; adopted, her mother died soon after her birth, her father abandoned her, all other details, including their names is restricted information.

She dreams of her mother, calling her for help, so she signs up for a shamanic workshop, to help those souls that have died but cannot leave to complete their journeys.

Due to her ineptitude, she contacts four souls but fails to send them, 'to the light'. Each of these four, now connected to body, died in a violent way, suicide or murder. They communicate with Candiss simply through her own voice. Beth is sexy, vulgar and aggressive, Caroline is kind, gentle and motherly, Howard, shy, nerdy but intelligent and Hank, simple, honest and courageous.

She needs to understand their pasts, so to resolve their issues and then they can be released. She also needs to uncover the secrets of her own past, find her mother's family and her errant father to resolve her own story.

During this journey, she will transform from a shy, lonely, unconfident, dowdy teenager, working as a waitress, to a confident, attractive news reporter, investigating and solving mysteries, eventually to find out, who she was, is and can be.
