

Mozzy gets sentimental on new song "Tunnel Vision"

Another fresh track from the Sacramento rapper.

Image: Mozzy official YouTube

HIP HOP

MARCH 12, 2020

Mozzy is on a roll: Shortly after dropping his "Omertà" collab with Spendoe, the Sacramento rapper has returned with a brand-new loosie titled "Tunnel Vision."

Produced by JabariOnTheBeat, the song is a moving ode to brotherhood and familial love. Mozzy even pays tribute to his late grandmother, who raised him when his father was incarcerated. "I miss you, Miss Levine, yeah, that's my mother mom / It was time she tried to save me from this Vietnam," he raps over the piano-driven melody. "I still be feelin' guilty 'bout my granny death / Ain't get to spend the time I wanted 'fore my granny left."

"Tunnel Vision" arrived alongside a music video that captures Mozzy chilling out on an empty rooftop with his crew and eldest daughter, Ariana-Dooterz. The rapper also shows off a golden pendant that features a portrait of his grandmother.

Last year, Mozzy dropped his album, Internal Affairs, which boasted contributions from Lil Poppa, Don Q, Sada Baby and Sage The Gemini, among others.

Advertisement

Watch the video for "Tunnel Vision" below:

Related Articles

Ten hottest hip hop videos: October 2020

Our favorite picks this month include Mulatto, Megan Thee Stallion and clipping.

October 31, 2020

Megan Thee Stallion shares update on her debut album

It's almost complete.

October 30, 2020

Kanye West taps DaBaby, 2 Chainz for "Nah Nah Nah" remix

DaBaby dominates the rework.

October 30, 2020

Don't miss

Ela Minus drops debut album
‘Acts of Rebellion’

Politically minded techno pop.

Kanye West taps DaBaby, 2
Chainz for “Nah Nah Nah” remix

TWICE release gorgeous video for “I Can’t Stop Me”

“Mr Bojangles” songwriter
Jerry Jeff Walker dies of cancer

Can’t get enough?

Get lab.fm's top stories delivered straight to your inbox. No nonsense, all substance.

Your email address

Subscribe

ABOUT US

We bring you all the important music news, opinion and features of the day in all the genres that matter.

FOLLOW US

© 2020 Lab.fm is a member of the media division of BandLab Technologies.

Privacy Policy Cookies Policy Terms of Use Contact Us