

VERC Enterprises names Courtney Buckley manager of Training, Development, Fun

KINGSTON – VERC Enterprises announced that Courtney Buckley, of Kingston, has been named manager of Training, Development and Fun.

In this newly created role, she is responsible for training associates, assistant managers and managers in addition to developing specialized training in specific categories. Buckley also maintains associate orientation programs and will develop programs to create an increased atmosphere of fun within the office headquarters and all store locations.

Buckley began her career with VERC Enterprises six years ago as category manager, subsequently becoming district manager. She held the title of special projects manager prior to her most recent designation.

“What a pleasure to announce Courtney as manager of Training, Development and Fun,” said Jim Fitzgerald, president of VERC Enterprises. “We are constantly striving to create programs and an environment that attracts and retains highly valued employees and Courtney is the ideal person to be at the helm of that goal.”

VERC Enterprises announced that Courtney Buckley, of Kingston, has been named manager of Training, Development and Fun. [COURTESY PHOTO]

