

US Congress Decides To Sanction $900 Billion New Stimulus Package

On Monday, December 22, 2020, US Congressmen collectively decided to vote on a relief package of $900 billion. The objective is to aid millions of small business enterprises and households battling the Covid 19 pandemic scenario.

As the death toll from the global pandemic is escalating in the middle of a huge re-emergence of the virus that once more endangers the economy of the country, both the Democratic and Republican lawmakers ultimately reached a solution following a vehement discussion Sunday evening. This ensued following months of intense argument and hostile deliberation on what to incorporate in the new stimulus package.

The breakup of this colossal year-end settlement is given below:

1. $166 billion through direct checks
2. $120 billion as additional unemployment aid
3. For small business support – $325 billion
4. Transportation assistance: $45 billion
